

Personal homepage

The Personal Homepage module allows individual users of Astragy to place content from the various reports on a single page. Users can reorder and change the content at any given time according to their own preferences. This allows them to quickly create relevant views on the information that is most valuable to them at that time. The homepage functions as the default startup page in Astragy. The Personal Homepage module saves users valuable time searching for and surfing to information in the system which they regularly use and offers quick access to the data they most often use.

Advantages

- Personalize the view in Astragy based on your own preferences
- Save time searching for data
- Create an instant overview of relevant information in one screen
- Create a personal 'information dashboard'

Characteristics

- Customizable per individual user
- Easy point-and-click 'Add to homepage' action from reports
- Easy drag-and-drop reordering of chapters
- Multi column page layout
- Edit content directly from the homepage (editors only)

